Dear Colleagues,

Greetings from URPSSI !

“The glory of medicine is that it is constantly moving forward, that there is always more to learn” - William J Mayo (1861-1939).

it is my privilege to inform you about the “URPS 2017 - operative workshop on Urogynaecology and Reconstructive Pelvic Surgery” scheduled to be held at Medway Hospitals,, Chennai from 26th January to 29th January 2017. Veteran Urogynaecologists from different continents, will unravel the intricacies of pelvic floor surgeries.

The growing scientific advances demands an ongoing learning process. Regular and continuing knowledge acquisition of newer management modalities becomes an absolute necessity for the medical fraternity.

Great surgeon Theodoric (1205- 1296) has said that “it behooves practitioners of surgery to frequent the places where skilled surgeons operate, and to attend these operations diligently and commit them to memory”

Excellence can only be accomplished by training and habituation. “Read one, See one and Do one” does not hold good for pelvic floor surgeries. Pelvic Surgeries need to be seen frequently and practiced regularly.

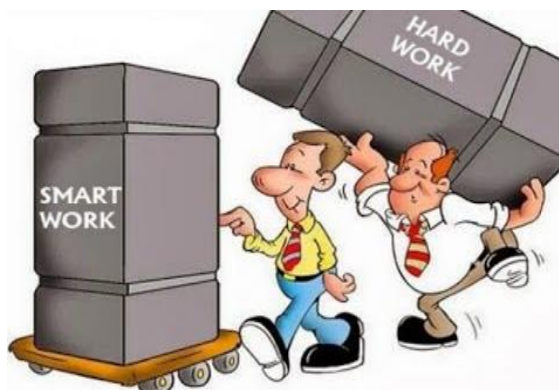

Faculty of URPS 2017 :

❖ Prof. Paul Riss	Austria
❖ Prof. Peter Dwyer	Australia
❖ Prof. George Ralph	Austria
❖ Dr. Fiona M. Lindo	U.S.A
❖ Prof. N. Rajamaheswari	India

Should you participate in URPS 2017 ? Yes.

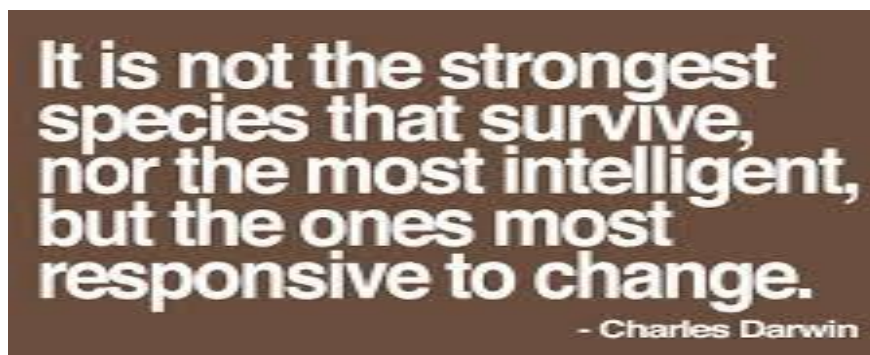

Because it will ensure learning from “Master Surgeons”

Surgeons may be admired, praised and even adored for good results . But then, they are blamed more than any other specialty for bad results despite all the hard work.

- URPS 2017 will help you to work smartly

It is said that "the illiterate of future are not those who can't read or write, but those who can't learn to unlearn (obsolete methods) & re - learn" (appropriate newer techniques).

- URPS 2017 will empower you to accomplish the transition smoothly.

Let us pledge to improve the Qol of women suffering from urogynecological diseases.

With warm regards,

N. Rajamaheswari
